

Trnjak

Trnjak is an indigenous grape variety of Herzegovina (Her-tsoh-GOH-vee-nuh) wine region. This bold, but elegant full bodied, wine has lots of herbal notes and abundance of spices. On a palate one can taste clove, vanilla and cinnamon, ripe aromas of currant, raspberry, cherry and plum jam. Pair it with spicy cheeses, grilled lamb, beef stews, steaks. Vegan wine. Serve at 65 F to 68 F. 13.5% ALC.

Interesting fact: Trnjak is best known for being Blatina's pollinator, as both varieties bloom at the same time. Blatina is very difficult to cultivate as it has female only flower, blooms only for three days and requires a pollinator to be planted in the same field. The winery Citluk has planted a row of Blatina, a row of Trnjak, 2 rows of Blatina, a row of Trnjak and so on. The goal is that Blatina has Trnjak at least on one side. A unilateral Guyot trained vine that has one cordon and all shoots are positioned into catch wires on a vertical trellis. Very small production.
